Bush River.
The sweeping, seething, surging flood of water last Monday that lifted Bush River bridge lightly as a feather, and leaped angrily toward the railroad bridge, brought many an interested spectator out to view the swelling flood as it broadened, expanded, converted smiling fields of corn and cotton into a temporary inland sea. The young ladies descended towards the shore in conveyances, singing the while, "what are the wild waves saying?" and "gathering shells from the seashore," while the boys reached the river by the "dirt train." It was a sight to those who had never seen the river on a rampage.

Cut Out.

In the last memorable flood the "Old Reliable" never failed us, but kept Newberry in connection with the outside world, supplying our logs and lumber, our printing paper and all the necessities of trade and commerce. And now the little Laurens had to go under for a few days, and we were left in the backwoods—rolled backward as it were fifty years into the past—without railroads, telegraph lines and daily papers! And like the Athenians of old the inquiry was, "what's the news?"

The "gospel of relaxation" was forced upon our busy lives and in it we found food for thought.

The Laurens Railway is all right again. The train rolled in yesterday about 1:15 p. m., bringing Monday's and Tuesday's mail.

The Cotton Plant.
The only strictly agricultural paper printed in South Carolina, has been adopted as the official organ of the Farmers' Alliance of this State. The Floods.

The August-September storm, which began in the far South-west and swept vast areas of country from the Gulf to the Lakes and the Atlantic, taking Newberry in its course, has been very destructive of land, crops, roads, bridges and mills dams, and seriously interfering with trade and travel.

The bridges in Newberry County have nearly all disappeared. Along Bush River all are gone save Lindsey's and that is unsafe. The volume of the water may be realized when it is remembered that Broad and Bush Rivers were never before as high by several feet. A quantity of grain and flour that had been removed to the second story of Langford's mill was reached by the water. The Little River bridges have all gone down with the exception of the Workman bridge and one span of it was partly carried off.

Mr. E. P. Lake, at Helena, we believe, says it was as high in 1822. Saluda and Broad rivers are higher than they have been since the big freshet of 1852, and possibly higher than they were then.

The County Commissioners advertise several bridges in this issue. In fact, as we have stated, nearly every bridge in the county has been taken away or badly damaged. The loss to the county in the way of bridges will reach $5,000 or $6,000. Some persons estimate the loss as high as $10,000.

The County Commissioners held a meeting on Wednesday and will proceed at once to have the most important bridges replaced. The tax levy for county purposes will possibly have to be increased to meet the heavy demand on the treasury for the loss of so many bridges.

This condition of things seems no longer phenomenal, but appears to have settled upon us as a normal condition. The drought which cut off the upland corn is followed by the flood that sweeps the bottom corn away. The loss to individuals is very heavy in the way of bottom corn and the injury to the cotton crop. Nearly all of the corn on the rivers and creeks will be a total loss and some of it was very fine. The loss falls upon many who are unable to bear it. The aggregate loss to the county at large is fearful to think of.

Just at this juncture, when the crop is maturing and the farmers are preparing for its removal to market, to see the cotton bolls rotting, the lint stained and the bridges gone, is discouraging. To many in the country at large the washing of the land and loss of crops, etc., is a real calamity and crucial test. But they dare not despair! There is hope ahead! Salutary lessons may be learned, and ways and means of escape be found!

Broad River on Tuesday was reported to be running several feet deep over the rails of the big iron bridge at Alston. From Alston to Columbia, a distance of about twenty miles, the track of the Columbia and Greenville railroad was under water. The damage to the road will be greater than that of the freshet of May, 1886, and possibly the heaviest damage the road has ever sustained.

All rail and telegraphic communication between Newberry and Columbia was interrupted Tuesday—the last train being a construction train, which came in Monday night.

The rise in Broad river began Monday night and was very rapid.

DAMAGE ON THE SALUDA.
Late yesterday afternoon Mr. J. L. Butler, from No. 7, called at our office, from whom we gathered the following facts as to the high water on the Saluda. He walked the iron at Little River and swam two spans of 15 feet each in order to get here.

At Dayton Mr. Walton's store is gone and a horse drowned. Mrs. Clark who lives near the creek was drowned in attempting to get out of her house in a canoe, the house being surrounded by water. This was on Sunday night.

At the railroad bridge the water was about five feet above the floor.

At Chappells the water was waist deep in the depot and over several cars on the track. Mr. Reid had a car load of flour on the track which was ruined. The cotton platform was turned around.

At Saluda every house was taken off except the old store of Mr. W. A. Hill and it was moved. The railroad station house was moved with a lot of iron in it.

The railroad bridge at Little River is gone. The water was five feet above the track. The water was still over the track at all these places on Tuesday and the damage cannot be estimated. It will be some time yet before the road is in repair for the trains to pass.

MR. SLIGH INTERVIEWED.

What He Has to Say About the Talk of an Independent Ticket and the Recent Election.

Mr. Sligh was in town on Monday and spent the night here. The Herald and News called on him Monday night at the residence of Mr. H. H. Blease and while there interviewed him on the situation in the county in regard to the talk of springing an independent ticket, and we give herewith that interview.

We found him alone in the parlor about 9 o'clock looking over the News and Courier.

In this connection we desire to write of a little matter personal.

This editor knows very little of the ways and tricks of politics, and in this campaign in the county it has been our endeavor to keep the columns of this paper free from anything that would show partiality to any candidate before the people, and we think we have succeeded in this. It was a family fight and we were willing to abide the result of the decision of the people at the polls as to who should be their nominees. This decision has been made and declared, and so far as this paper is concerned we accept it and shall support the nominees declared by the executive committee. The editor exercised his right to vote and he accords the same privilege to every man, without stint or grumbling. We dislike to see partisanship carried too far by any one, especially in a Democratic primary for nominations.

The influence of this paper shall never be given to further the purposes of any party within the party while it is under the present management, but we shall ever strive to stand on high ground, awarding to each man his rights and keeping an eye single to the best interests of the whole people. Whenever we become so blinded by the partisanship as not to be able to do this we shall retire from journalism.

We went to Mr. Blease's residence by the main street and at the front door and expected to tell the readers of The Herald and News what took place there. We did not know we had to be watched as if we were slipping some where. But the first thing we heard when we came down street on Tuesday morning was that we had attended a caucus at Mr. Blease's the night before, and that we were secretaries. We have been secretary of a good many things lately, but if we have ever been in a caucus or secretary of one in all of our eventful life we are unaware of it. We did have out our pencil and note book, something with which we are always armed, but "simply this and nothing more," and here is what we wrote therein. If that is a caucus and being secretary of it, then we have been correctly accused. But the truth is there was no caucus, and we think it worrying matters just a little too far to put all sorts of reports about simply because a man sees fit to talk with another.

We hope our readers will pardon us for saying this much in this connection, but we feel compelled to do it under the circumstances.

After exchanging a few words on the weather or something of that sort, The Herald and News asked Mr. Sligh if he objected to being interviewed, and he said no.

"Well," queried the reporter, "Mr. Sligh, there has been a good deal of talk recently of springing an independent ticket in the county, and some people think you know something of it, have you anything to say about that?"

"The people," said Mr. Sligh, "are very much dissatisfied with the result of the recent election. They are writing to me and coming to me every day, asking me to expose the outrageous proceedings perpetrated upon them, and telling me if this is not done they will spring an independent ticket. In obeying this command I have but one object in view and that is the purification and purification of the Democratic party from corruption, and to teach the perpetrators that it is dangerous to override the rights of the people. I have been advising my friends against an independent ticket, and shall continue so to do. I think I shall be able to control them provided they are not goaded to desperation. It is our full intention to act within the lines of the Democratic party in bringing about this reform."

"It is reported that you have been in consultation with Mr. B. O. Duncan and Mr. D. R. Phifer, two white Republicans. What about that?" asked the reporter.

"Concerning this," answered Mr. Sligh, "I have to say some people are too suspicious. They should be more particular as to how they judge the motives of others. I had a few words with both of these gentlemen since the election, but not one word was said about an independent ticket, or anything of the kind, or anything that would lead to it. On Saturday morning, September 1, I met Mr. Duncan at the foot of the stairs at Judge Blease's office and had a short conversation with him, but nothing was said about the dissatisfaction growing out of the results of the recent election or about the election at all."

"In your recent article, Mr. Sligh, you speak of appealing to the people will you be kind enough to explain what you mean by that?" asked the reporter.

"I mean simply to show them that the protest that they and I are making is well founded and that I am really their choice for Senator, and not with a view of annulling the decision of the Executive Committee. Also with a further view of showing to the people that unless the corrupt proceedings practiced at the recent election are removed they will prove the destruction of the Democratic party."

After this Mr. Sligh said: "My friends tell me that it is reported on the streets of Newberry, and I heard it before I got here, that I have been meeting with the negroes with a view of encouraging an independent ticket. Such a report is unworthy of my notice, and I hurl it back in the contempt I can control. I have to say, 'Evil to him who evil thinks.' This rumor the reporter had not heard. With this the interview ended, and the reporter withdrew.

VARIOUS AND ALL ABOUT.

The Enoree Baptist Association is in session in the Newberry Baptist church this week. The delegates were cut off by high water and a quorum was not present until late yesterday afternoon.

Messrs. Cook & Carville have an announcement in this issue of The Herald and News. We invite everybody to give these young gentlemen a call. Enterprising, energetic, and with good business qualifications they will succeed.

Shockey Brothers have the contract for building Mr. D. R. Phifer's stables. The Newberry band now has quarters over the store of Wright & J. W. Coppock on the Mollohon row.

The "old reliable" failed to come in on time on Monday and did not reach Newberry until yesterday.

The Farmers County Club will hold a Convention in Newberry next Saturday. It is the regular time for the election of officers and a full attendance is desired.

PROSPERITY LETTER.

Mr. H. C. Moseley was called from New York by a telegram on account of sickness in his family. The fever left Lila yesterday and she is much better now.

The second primary began yesterday morning at 8 o'clock and closed at 5 p. m. The Rubicon is crossed—the agony is over, and some people are happy and serene, and some are not quite so calm—some are jubilant and some are dejected and wish they had their money back. Some are quiet and some, yes, are great many, are exceedingly bitter. There were 486 votes polled here yesterday, which is a large vote for this place in a second primary, especially so when it is remembered that the voters from number eight township, who usually vote here, could not cross Bush River. A good deal of interest was manifested by the friends of some of the Candidates, though all in a pleasant way, and every thing passed off quietly until after the polls were closed, when a little bloodless skirmish occurred between some parties which grew out of something in the first primary. Thus bitterness is added to bitterness until the bitterness has become intense. These things should not be so, or at least the causes thereof should not be so.

Our merchants who have been North have returned with large and well selected stocks of goods. They are pretty and cheap. A young lady would say, "They are just too nice for anything, are not they?"

Prosperity is fast losing her reputation of being the great egg and chicken emporium. These commodities are quite scarce, yet they are very nice things to have in a family and are in demand.

Miss Brabham, of Newberry, is the guest of Miss Sallie Lirngford.

Mr. D. M. Langford has moved to his new dwelling, which, by the way, is the most "stylish" house in town. It is large, airy, convenient, and is beautiful to look upon.

Our streets underwent a great change last week—from deep dust to deep mud. Well, verily we are a great people to murmur, and I sometimes fear that we are as bad or worse than the Israelites were on their journey from Egypt to Palestine. The weather is always wrong with us. It is too dry or too wet, too cold or too hot, too windy or too calm. These conditions, though wisely arranged by the great Triune, seldom, if ever suits poor, finite man.

Personal.
Railroad Commissioner Bonham was in town last week.

Mr. J. D. Chapman is clerking for Summer Bros.

NOTES FROM EXCELSIOR.
The pinard crop is being gathered in. September has come and the hot weather will soon be over.

The Excelsior School has reopened with Mr. J. D. Kinard teacher.

Mr. Elias Lake and wife, of Peak Station, has been visiting with relatives in this community.

A goodly number in this community will attend the school exhibition at the Johnstone Academy on to-morrow (Friday). We also return thanks for an invitation to be present.

We had the pleasure of meeting our young friend "Y. F." of Pomaria, while in Prosperity a few days ago. There must be some attraction in Prosperity for our young friend.

We have had the pleasure of visiting a few of the schools in different communities and witnessing the closing exercises and we are glad to see that the fathers and mothers of this Christian land of ours are taking such interest in the educational welfare of their children. We are reliably informed that some 75 or 100 years ago there were but few school houses to be found and they were built of logs with the cracks plastered shut with mud and a dirt floor with a small window on either side. See then how the work of education has advanced from that day to the present time. Today we have the advantage of good school houses thickly scathed, well furnished and supplied with good teachers. The lawyer, the doctor and the minister besides other men of noted character all sprang from the little school boy in his abode's may at some future day be the President of the United States. SIGMA.

Social Gathering Y. M. C. A.

On Monday night last there was held in the rooms of the Young Men's Christian Association the first of a series of entertainments to be given during the coming fall and winter, and this one will not soon be forgotten by those who enjoyed it. After a voluntary (the 93d Psalm) rendered by the choir, the exercises were formally opened with the use of Gospel Hymn No. 25, reading of Psalm 145 and prayer by the president.

The reports of three of the committees of the Association were next read by their respective chairmen. The Membership Committee reported two applicants for active membership, who were on motion unanimously elected.

After singing Gospel Hymn 114, the work of the Association was briefly presented by the General Secretary.

Then the social feature of the evening was introduced and opened with a quartette, "Come where the lilies grow," by Miss Holbrook, Mrs. Robertson, Dr. Jones and Mr. Moody.

A response by Mark Twain to a toast, "The Babies," was read by Mr. Jas. P. Kinard, who acquitted himself most creditably, and provoked much hearty laughter, by his realistic portrayal of the antics of that helpless, irresistible tyrant of the household, the audience was next entertained by a trio rendition of that beautiful air, "Oh, Restless Sea."

"The Angels of Bonna Vista," a recitation by Miss Laura Blease, was next on the program. This sudden transition from the ridiculous to the sublime was indeed delightful, and the round of applause with which it was greeted was a more fitting testimony to its true merit than can any words of description.

Then followed a humorous reading by Mr. Moody, entitled "Flash, the Fireman's Story." Mr. Moody very graphically illustrated the race between the milk-wagon and the fire-engine; and few if any of the audience were in a frame of mind appropriate to receiving the news of the tragic death of old Flash. With this closed the literary and social part of the evening's entertainment.

After singing Gospel Hymn 262, and the benediction by Rev. C. P. Scott, many of the friends remained for mutual congratulations.

Ridge Road and Cannons Creek.

I take pleasure in sending my first communication to your paper. I take this method to inform my friends that I will both correspond and take subscription to The Herald and News.

The patrons of the Ridge Road School house elected Miss Minnie Hartman, of Mt. Pilgrim Section, for the next scholastic year.

The recent continued wet spell has injured the cotton crop to a great extent. Picking which was about begun has been indefinitely postponed. Rust has been reported in a great many places on low sandy lands. The cotton has also been sprouting in the bolls.

The young men of this section, have organized a Debating Society at Ridge Road Academy. The regular time of meeting is on Friday night of each week. I had the pleasure of meeting with them not long since. They all did remarkably well. Go ahead boys, practice makes perfect: You may be lawyers some day.

The Newberry Lutheran Conference will convene at Ridge Road church on Friday embracing the fifth Sunday of this month.

Mr. Robt. R. Jeffares, the organizer of the Farmers' Alliance, will be at Jolly Street on Saturday next, 15th inst., at 8 p. m., for the purpose of organizing and explaining the workings of said organization. We hope that there will be a full turnout of all the farmers of this section.

On Saturday evening last, at 1 p. m., there was an indignation meeting of the citizens of this section called at Ridge Road Academy. There were about 40 among the best citizens present at the meeting. Mr. L. Q. Fellers was made chairman, and Mr. G. P. Griffin secretary of the meeting. Mr. T. J. Wilson was called upon to explain the object of the meeting, which he did in a very brief manner, by showing the resolutions of Mr. W. A. Hill, which were adopted in Mr. Blease's office on Saturday the 1st inst. Also stating that the purpose of the meeting was to endorse those resolutions. The resolutions were then read by Mr. L. L. Moore, and were unanimously endorsed by every one present. There being no other business the meeting then adjourned.

I notice in the last issue of the Newberry Observer a communication copied from the Register, from some Newberry man who was too kind to sign his name to the article he had written. He made a very mischievous attack upon a part of the delegation which attended the Democratic County Convention at Newberry on the 1st inst. He first had reference to a part of the delegation which assembled in Blease's office in caucus. He says, "who made known their purpose after the assembling of the convention?" I was present at this meeting and shall ever be present at such meetings as long as convenience will afford the opportunity. To show the gentleman was talking a little too fast and did not know what he was talking about, I will refer him to the proceedings of said meeting published in full in the last issue of all the county papers, and if he or any other man can say that there was anything else offered in this meeting except the resolutions of Mr. Hill, which were adopted and published in full, let him come out with sufficient proof and say so, or forever hold his peace, until he knows what he is talking about.
